PRESS RELEASE

Announcement of the results of the 2011 Population Census for the Resident Population

The Hellenic Statistical Authority (ELSTAT) announces that the Resident Population of Greece derived from the conduct of the 2011 Population and Housing Census was 10,815,197 individuals. The resident population refers to the number of individuals who had their usual residence¹ in every Region, Regional Unit, Municipality, Municipal Unit, Municipal or Local Community and “oikismos” of the country. The resident population includes all the individuals, irrespective of citizenship (Greek or foreign), who declared during the Population Census that the place of their usual residence is within the Greek territory.²

Table 1 below presents the results of the Resident Population down to the level of Municipality. Detailed results for every administrative division of the country down to the level of “oikismos” are available on the website of ELSTAT, at the following address :

http://www.statistics.gr/portal/page/portal/ESYE/BUCKET/General/resident_population_census2011.xls

The 2011 Population and Housing Census was conducted during 10-24 May 2011, with 9 May 2011 as the reference date. The Census was conducted in full compliance with a) the methodological principles of Regulation (EC) 763/2008 of the European Parliament and of the Council and its implementing Regulations, b) the Recommendations of the Conference of European Statisticians for the 2010 Round of Population and Housing Censuses, which are the outcome of the cooperation between UNECE (United Nations - Economic Commission for Europe) and Eurostat, c) the principles of the European Statistics Code of Practice, and d) the provisions of Law 3995/2011 on conducting the 2011 Population and Housing Census and of the Statistical Law of Greece, Law 3832/2010 as in force.

² The recording of the resident population was based on the replies of the enumerated individuals regarding the place of their usual residence.

The 2011 Population and Housing Census in Greece focused on the recording of the Resident Population of the country in contrast to previous Censuses, which were designed to record the De Facto population (i.e., individuals who were found present in the country on the reference date of the Census). Besides this, the methodology of the 2011 Census differs significantly in several respects from that of previous Censuses, both with regard to the modalities of conduct of the Census, for example the duration of the Census (15 days) and the enumeration of individuals at their place of usual residence, and with regard to the processing of Census data, for example the different and more complete methods of checking, assuring the quality, and processing of the collected data, based on new technologies and modern methods. Thus, the results of the 2011 Census and those of earlier Censuses are not fully comparable.

The Census results indicate that the municipalities of Kallithea, Nea Smyrni, Athens, Thessaloniki and Nea Ionia (Table 2) comprise the five municipalities with the highest resident population density (per km²). The five municipalities with the lowest resident population density (per km²) are the municipalities of Prespes, Zagori, Paranesti, Sfakia and Nestorio (Table 3).

In order to assess the completeness and the quality of the information collected by the 2011 Population-Housing Census, and in contrast with the previous Census, a Post Enumeration Survey was completed by ELSTAT. The Post Enumeration Survey is conducted to assess the completeness and quality of the data of the Census, and its main goal is to estimate the number of people and households that were not enumerated by the Census. The Post Enumeration Survey was conducted shortly after the 2011 Census (June 2011) on a large and representative sample of 19,380 dwellings from around the country, with a view to assessing the exhaustiveness and quality of the 2011 Population Census data, including at geographic/administrative levels below that of the country as a whole. In total, 28,195 individuals were surveyed.

The Post Enumeration Survey records were matched to those from the 2011 Census, in order to detect persons that were not enumerated as well as erroneous inclusions of persons in the Census. In particular, estimations of the population in the sample areas were produced from the outcome of the above matching using statistical techniques (Dual System Estimation). This allowed the estimation of persons not enumerated in the Census. Subsequently, the net coverage error rate referring to the resident population was calculated, which shows the overestimation or underestimation rate of the population size.

The results of the Post Enumeration Survey point to an underestimation of the resident population (net coverage error rate) of 2.84% for the country as a whole, which indicates that the 2011 Census results are consistent with quality targets for Censuses. Put differently, for every 10,000 individuals of the resident population, the Census enumerated 9,716 of them.

In Tables 4 and 5 below is indicated the net coverage error rate by Region and by degree of urbanization, with reference to urban areas for which there is wide interest due to the large concentration of population.

Notes describing the conduct of the 2011 Population and Housing Census and the Post Enumeration Survey of the 2011 Census are also available on ELSTAT's website, at the following address :

The results for the De Facto population will be published in the first quarter of 2013, while the detailed results for the demographic, economic and social characteristics of the resident population will be made available gradually within 2013, following the completion of the relevant quality controls.

ELSTAT is deeply grateful to the residents of the country as well as to national and local agencies for their contribution to the successful conduct and completion of the 2011 Population and Housing Census.
